CHEATED OUT OF TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS. CONFIDENCE MEN GET AN OCTOGENARIAN INTO A CARD GAME AND INDUCE HIM TO

CASH TWO BONDS. Robert Calder, an aged man, who lives at No. 82 Hanson Place, was cheated out of $2,000 by confidence men at No. 51 Willoughby-ave. on Friday. Mr. Calder, who is in his eighty-second year, was walking near his home on Friday morn-ing when a well-dressed young man engaged him in conversation on the election and other topics, and finally induced him to go to his rooms in Willoughby-ave. The stranger said his name was Southard, and introduced Mr. Calder to a friend named Hopkins. They had some cards on a green table, and Hopkins asked Mr. Calder to sit down and play faro. He consented, after being told that the game was simple, and drew a card which Hopkins told him entitled him to $200. This which Hopkins told him entitled him to $200. This encouraged Mr. Calder, and he drew another and was told that he had won $50. Then another stroke of luck befell him, and he soon won $2,000. The money was not paid to him, but he was invited to continue playing, and was told that all his winnings would be paid at the same time. But as a guarantee that he could settle his obligations if he lost, he was asked if he could show any large sum of money. He answered that he could get it from his safe £eposit bex, and went to the Franklin Safe Deposit Company and took two $1,000 bonds from his box and cashed them in the office of John S. James, getting four $500 bills. He was accompanied by the man who called himself Southard, who took him back to his room.

Acting under the instruction of Southard, the old man put his money on the table and picked out another card in hopes of winning $2,000. But instead, he lost, and Hopkins took his money. Mr. Calder denounced the whole thinx as a "skin" game and a scheme to rob him. Young Southard pretended to sympathize with him, and urged him to go home and keep the matter quiet. He did so, and it was only by chance that Mrs. Calder learned on Saturday, when visiting the Safe Deposit Company's office on some business of her own, that her husband had sold the bonds. The money represented his savings when he was a clerk for the Union Ferry Company. He has suffered from senile decay, but was able to transact business. The police falied to find the men at No. 54 Withoughby-ave, and the landlady said that they had occupied the rooms only a few days, and had weated them Friday night. Hopkins represented himself as an architect.

THE ARCHBISHOP BLESSES A HOSPITAL.

The chapel of the new maternity Cospital, known as the New-York Mothers' Home of the Roman Catholic Order of the Sisters of Miserirordia, in East Eighty-sixth st., presented an impressive appearance yesterday merning, when Arc bishop Corrigan, in his robes of office, and attended by many of his clergy, blessed the building. The chapel is a temporary one, but the altar and the throne could not be greatly surpassed in point of rich-ness, and the air about was freighted with the perfume others that were balined at the side of the altar.

After Archbishop Corrigan had blessed the building, psaims were sung, and then the Archbishop delivered a sermon. Father Charpentier, of Montreal, celebrated mass. A dinner was afterward given to the clergy. Among the clergy present were Father Connelly, the Archbishop's secretary; Father McKenna, Father Prendergast, Father
Lynch, Father John Tetreau, Father Creeden, of sing

A BANKER'S STRANGE STORY OF ROBBERY. Raimondo C. Marino, an Italian banker, at No 7 Fourteenth-st., reported to the police that on Saturday he had been robbed of a large amount of money. Marino said that Saturday was a busy day. About 5 p. m. he put his money in a drawer. he says, and locked it, and then worked on his books. He heard a noise and, looking up, saw four men whom he had seen in New-York. Suspecting that they were ther with no good intentions, he turned the combination of his safe. He was or-dered to "stop monkeying." When asked what their business was the men responded, "Money." Marino said he then attempted to escape from the office, but was seized by the men, who ordered him to open the safe. He refused at first, but compiled when he realized that further refusal would endanger his life. When the safe was opened he was ordered to unlock the money drawer and take out the money. This he did, and the men seized the was ordered to unlock the money was ordered to untook the money. This he did, and the men seized the money and shoved it into a bag. The four men then left the place, after, according to the story, threatening Marino if he should make any outcry. Marino could not specify the amount taken, but said it was several thousand dollars. He added that he knew the men and would go to New-York to-day to procure their arrest.

Marino's banking office is in the midst of the Italian quarter. It occupies the space of about six feet square of the grocery store of Mrs. Mary Valenti. Marino's business is to bank savings or lend money, or exchange American and foreign currency. He has had the confidence of his fellow countrymen. The police yesterday appeared to be incredulous about the robbery and did not take Marino's statements very seriously. Marino not only kept perfectly quiet while the alleged visitors were in his office, but raised no alarm when they were leaving the place.

HOBOKEN

A bust of Monsignor Satolli, commemorative of the Papal Delegate's visit to the Church of Our Lady of Grace, Hoboken, was unveiled in that edifice yesterday. The ceremonies were exceedingly simple and brief. The organ played a series of national airs, and at 10 Dean McNulty, of Paterson, removed the American flag which concealed the bust and the organ played an appropriate hymn. Father Malone, of Brooklyn, who was to de-liver the oracion, was ill, and in his absence liver the oration, was ill, and in his absence Father Corrigan, pastor of the church, made a brief address, setting forth the object of Archishop Satolli's visit to the United States and discussing the public and parochial schools. He said it was the duty of Catholic parents to send their children to the parish schools wherever such schools existed. Then Dr. Fabris read a brief Latin poem eulogistic of the Archbishop, and the brief ceremonies were ended by a benediction from Father Hersessy and the Papal blessing. The church was crowded with Catholic societies. Among the laymen present were Mayor Fagan and Colonel John J. Toffey. Bishop Wigger arrived in Hoboken at 6 o'clock for the purpose of making his annual visit to the Church of the Holy Rosary and confirming the children of the higher classes of the Sunday-school.

ORANGE. The deadlock in Orange over the completion of the sewer system has been satisfactorily broken. Certain parties have come forward, and will take the assignment of the contractor's estimates after they are ratified by the Common Council and pay them. These will bear interest at 6 per cent, and them. These will bear interest at 6 per cent, and will be valid liens against the city. The estimates for October amount to about $10,000, and those for November will be for an equal amount. Immediately on the assembling of the New-Jersey Legislature an enabling bill will be introduced raising the limit of the legal expenditure for sewerage purposes from 10 per cent of the assessed valuations to 15 per cent. This will legalize all outstanding claims and permit the issuance of bonds to a sufficient amount to complete the entire system. About $200,000 is estimated to be needed.

A WOMAN DIES IN A POLICE STATION

SHE GETS INTOXICATED, IS PUT OUT OF A HOUSE, AND IS PICKED UP UNCONSCIOUS IN THE STREET.

Mrs. Annie Groom was picked up in a dying condition by the Brooklyn police at Atlantic-ave. and Adelphi-st. last evening, and died soon after ward. She was a woman forty-five years old, and lived at No. 1,004 Atlantic-ave. Yesterday afternoon she paid a visit to the house of Thomas Shannon at No. 471 Adelphi-st., and became intoxicated. About 5 o'clock Shannon put her out of the house and in doing so slapped her with considerable force An hour later she returned and created a disturb-ance, and he slapped her again and ejected her. ance, and he slapped her again and ejected her. She fell on the sidewalk and lay there half an hour when Policeman McDonald found her unconscious. She was removed to the Sixth-ave, police station, and Ambulance Surgeon Townsend was called. He found the woman dead upon his arrival. The only marks of violence he could find on her body was a small black-and-blue spot on the left thigh. The police arrested Shannon. He denied assaulting the woman with violence. Word was sent to the woman's husband of her death, but he replied that he was too poor to bury her.

What is the matter with "The Hartford Times" anyway? It is keeping up its defence of Judge Maynard, and heaping abuse on the New-York papers that opposed him. It still apparently holds to its amazing statement, made before election, that Maynard's offence consisted in rendering a judicial decision in certain election cases. "The Times" seems to have a burr on its thinking processes.

"The Rochester Post-Express" (Dem.) indulges in a rather savage fling at that ex-newspaper man and good fellow, Secretary Lamont. It rays: Cabinet officer and he seems to spend his time partly as Presidential valet, partly as messenger boy, and partly as manager of secret partisan intrigues. There has been nothing like him since the notorious barber of Louis XI.
